TO OBTAIN MALAYSIA'S DRIVERS LICENCE

The process needs to start with a registration at any of Malaysia's Driving Schools. Once registered, a driving school student will receive a handbook with 500 questions about driving on the roads in Malaysia. This will also be accompanied by the requirement to attend a 6 hours course, where an instructor will go through the basics of driving in Malaysia. Once an applicant passes the theory exam, the school will assign a car with a driving instructor for practice classes. A total of 22 classes must be fulfilled by the student. Next step is to pass the driving test. The driving test will include a slope test, 3-point turn, reverse parking, parallel parking, and driving on the open road. The initial driving license that will be received, would be a probationary license "P" of two years, whereby a driver must drive with a "P" sticker on his car. After 2 years of completion, driver may apply for a 5 years driving license.
